What is freight insurance?

Freight insurance, also known as cargo insurance or logistics insurance, is a policy that covers goods against loss or damage while they are in transit from origin to destination. This can include damage from loading/unloading, theft, mishandling, weather events, or other unexpected disruptions.

Do you need cargo freight insurance?

For instance, if a high-value cargo worth $100,000 suffers damage and the carrier's liability limit is $500 per container, the business stands to lose nearly the full value of the cargo. In contrast, dedicated cargo freight insurance ensures proper valuation and payout. 1. All-Risk Freight Insurance

What is open cargo insurance?

Open cargo insurance is a continuous policy designed for companies, ship frequently. Rather than ensuring each shipment separately, an open policy covers all shipments within a certain time frame. This type of freight forwarder cargo insurance is cost-effective for high-volume shippers and streamlines administration. 5. Specific Cargo Insurance
